Class Ode, 1906.

Tune "Fair Harvard."

By Mabelle Deborah Lake.

In our childhood, we longed for the bright, happy hour,
When our school day tasks would be o'er;
That hour has now come, but alas, all too soon,
Its brightness allures us no more;
As the leaves in the autumn still cling to the trees,
We cling to the school that we love,
And yet, like the leaves we are scattered abroad
Afar o'er the wide world to rove.

Our Father in Heaven, we pray Thee to-night,
Keep watch o'er our footsteps alway,
And show us the path that is narrow and straight,
That we never may wander astray;
In the future, dear classmates, where 'er we may be,
Though afar o'er the seas we may dwell,
Let our mem'ries come back to our school-days so dear,
To the days that we now bid, farewell.

R. M. Elliott.

Foreword

THE Editors of the Phi Annual extend a greeting to the patrons of this book and hope that the work of recording the events of the past year has been successfully finished, but it is left for the readers to determine how well this has been done. We wish to thank all those who have so generously aided us in producing this volume and now leave the book to speak for itself.

1906 Editorial

AT last! At last! Who said we would never be Seniors? But we are. Even Sully is going to get a diploma, although he doesn't really deserve it, the faculty are going to give in and let him have one to get rid of him. Thank the Lord, McQuade, Bramhall and some of that bunch are not reckoned among us.

We nearly lost Leith, our star hurdler, by extraction, but, thanks to much wire pulling, he is back and doing business at the old stand in Room 7. But he was not as bad as several others; for instance—but it is better not to mention names. It wasn't fair though, for Mr. Sherburne told Walsh how to do it.

We suppose the other classes think they can get along next year without us, but they'll find out. In order not to let the school go completely to ruin, several of "us" are coming back next year to help out.

What do you suppose the track team would have amounted to, if Gleason and Tighe (both '06) hadn't been on it. Or the football team without Erdis.

But what is the use of saying more? We all know that we are stars in our particular branch of work.

HELLO Central—give me 1905—Hello, High School?—Is 1905 there?—Just out, you say?—Well, who's that? McQuade there? Let me talk to him please—What! Not in school today? Why's that?—Oh! I see, his day off, is it?—Well, how about Shaw, Jack Shaw, I mean?—Oh! left school because of over study? I see—Well, let me speak to Sid Whipple—Oh! busy studying?—Of course, as usual.—Well, who's this?—Why! hello Karl Herrick, what are you doing here? Making yourself useful helping Kitty, I suppose. Well that's the way. Give my love to the old school, and tell 'em I'm glad I'm out of it. So long.

How much Central? Fifteen cents? All right, charge it to Mr. Swift.

Who's that coming up the path
With books of Latin and of "Math"?
Don't you know? It's on his face,
He's a Junior. Know his race?

Well, I'll tell you seeing you don't know. A Junior is a person who has the privilege of staying down stairs in the corridor during recess, who owns the school and likes to let people know it.

If you should see a tall lanky fellow with trousers turned up to his knees and with hands in his pockets, you can make a guess it's a Junior. Dodge by name. And I'll let you know he's captain of the track team—next year.

Another Junior is Sturtevant of the track team. He can pole-vault and also hurdle some, but by his looks and actions one might be led to believe that he was the whole team and the mascot at the same time.

There are other Juniors too numerous to mention but truly, they are a sad lot.

FRESH?—Not at all!—Modest?—To be sure!—Meek?—Of course!—Studious by nature?—Naturally!—Beloved of the faculty?—Without doubt!—Observant of law?—Well rather!—Pride and joy of the school?—Undeniable!

Does this description fit 1908? Well hardly, my dear friends, as it really is a description of 1909, but we insert it here to show what they are—not.

It is the members of this class who always mistake Messrs. Dennett and Swift (alias Fish) as Seniors. It is this class who have not due respect, etc., etc., for those youthful—we blush to say it—instructors.

One redeeming feature alone saves this class from entire insignificance, and that is, that through some mishap, Corporal Pratt, of the Tech. drill fame, landed in that bunch, for which they ought to be duly grateful and give daily thanks to an eccentric Fate.

1909 Editorial

HOW do you do? I presume you are a scholar, but who is that gentleman standing over there, the prncipal no doubt?—No?—Then he must be a prof.—No?—What! only a kid like yourself. Who'd a thunk it? He looks as if he owned the school. But appearances are sometimes deceitful. By the way, what did you say his name was? Oh! Pullen? Yes, yes. Who would have thought that a fellow like him would be admitted to High School.

Who are those girls there? Seniors? What! only Freshmen? My but won't there be a fine Senior class—of girls—in three more years? And you say they can play basket-ball? Well I should smile.

LETICS

Editorial

ONE of the biggest surprises of the year to many people came when it was announced that we trimmed Lawrence by the score of 11 to 0. It was the more surprising, because the team was defeated earlier in the season by Lawrence, besides losing many other games. But it showed that with proper coaching, a team could be developed from the most unpromising material, for most of the men were certainly green at the beginning of the season. The final success was due to the hard and persistent work of coaches, Mahony and Varnum, and of Captain Haynes.

Never has Lowell High had a better track team than the one which represented the school during the past season. Winning five meets and losing none is a record to be proud of. Lowell defeated the strong team of Boston English High for a second time, and also overcame other strong rivals. The only meet which looked doubtful for Lowell after the first few events was the out door meet at Concord, April 19th, where Lowell won in the last event, after an exciting finish. In that meet the fellows won many cups and medals including a large silver cup captured by the team.

During the past season the boys' basket-ball team had the best financial success that it has enjoyed for several years, although its record is nothing to brag over. The small number of victories is due to the fact that Captain Scribner was the only one who had played on the team before, all the others being new men. Next year Lowell should have a winning team, as all but two of this year's team will be back in school, and there are some very promising freshmen players.

The baseball team is having unusual success thus far this year, having won eight out of ten games. Captain Chadbourne has picked a first class bunch of players, especially the infield. Al. Haynes, at pitch, is showing much better form than last year and is the mainstay of the team. The rest of the players work well together and should be able to win most of the remaining games. Manager Coburn has wisely secured the greater part of the games away from home, as baseball is not supported by the school as it should be.

The girls have again gone through a season without a single defeat, and indeed, without meeting a team that was anywhere near their equals. This is the fourth season of uninterrupted success. They have played the best girls' teams in New England and have not ever been in danger of defeat. This wonderful playing is due to the way in which Mr. Burtt coaches and manages the team. A great many of this year's team will be back in school next year and will probably show the same superiority over other teams as in the past.

At the close of the season this year, Mr. Burtt took the girls on a trip to Washington where they met the President. They were gone a week and all had the time of their life.

The Senior girls again captured the championship in the class basket-ball games, although by a very narrow margin. The Sophomores put up a great fight for it, but were defeated in the final game by the Seniors in an overtime contest. The game ended somewhat unsatisfactorily but, in the opinion of the referee, the Seniors won.

The Girl with the "L" on Her Sweater

The Ancients of old gave no medals or cups
To the winners in contest and fray;
The only rewards for their skill in the games
Were chaplets of laurel or bay.
More modest are we in this era of sport,
We give to the victors a letter;
But no athlete of old was so honestly proud
As the girl with the "L" on her sweater.

With figure erect and her shoulders thrown back
She's the picture of glorious health.
She has clear, sparkling eyes and her cheeks all aglow
More precious than jewels or wealth.
With a light easy step she moves calmly along;
No doubt you have already met her,
A delight to the eye and the pride of her school
Is the girl with the "L" on her sweater.

Four seasons of games both at home and abroad,
No high school was able to beat her.
She carried the day by her vigor at play,
A college alone could defeat her.
She's renowned through the State for her prowess and skill.
Our High School is greatly her debtor
For the fame and the glory acquired so well
By this girl with the "L" on her sweater.

Then here's to the girl who is bright at her books,
To the girl who is brilliant and witty;
To the girl who is blessed with good manners and looks,
To the girl who is winsome and pretty,
And here's to the girl who is graceful and tall,
To the girl who is all these—and better;
But here's to the finest, the best of them all:
To the girl with the "L" on her sweater.

Raps

It is easy enough to laugh at jokes
Which are harshly cracked on other folks;
But strange how you always look so blue,
When anyone cracks a joke on you.

We trust that the pupils of Lowell High,
If they find their names in the knocks of this Phi,
Will not feel hurt; and will take it duly
In the spirit as given by "Ever yours truly."

—Phi.

Raps

By gosh, did you ever
Feel under the weather,
When your lessons all go wrong;
When you feel like an ass,
As you go to your class,
When your teachers must drive you along?

It is safe to assume
If you get out of this,
That the night before is to blame;
And you'll say to yourself,
"Never again for mine."
(But you'll go out to-night, just the same.)

Who is this in such curious rig,
With feet so small and head so big?
For girls he never cares a fig(?).
Chub Waring.

Dreaming

BY COL. BARTLETT

I dreamt one night that I was it,
Wherever I went I made a hit,
Whatever I did was always right,
I 'gan to think I was out of sight.

I heard my name with praises ring,
I thought that I was everything.
Then I guessed that I had just cause,
To think that I was all there was.

People stopped when I went by,
Just for a glance of him so high.
I thought myself the greatest of all men
But I was only dreaming then.

If anyone wants some fact (or the opposite) to be known by everybody, tell it to Ellingwood.

Biographies

DANA PALMER, age unknown, but from his actions, probably about ten, claims Belvidere as the place where he first opened his little eyes. Peanucle is short and fat, and has a great dislike for ice-cream sodas, unless he doesn't have to settle. As a Greek and Roman history scholar he leads his class, and it is his teacher's delight and joy to have him around. Palmer is very studious and never speaks unless spoken to. He is trying for a professorship in the Pelham school of dentistry, where he will be glad to see any of his former teachers.

LEONARD HUNTRESS, JR., was born at 4.17 P. M. on May 2, 1899, of a noble family but does not inherit any of their characteristics. "Bun" has received a fine education in the Pond Street Primary and in the Moody Grammar Schools. He intends to become a professor of Greek at Harvard, if he does not become a prize fighter. "Bun" is now sporting a paddock and appears almost human.

GEORGE MACARONI DRURY, the subject of our sketch, is now eighty-one years old. When a boy he was fond of rough games, but now has rheumatism. George is also possessed of long whiskers and a longer walk. Our hero is often seen with a lawn mower, a skye terrier, or a Rogers Hall girl.

HAROLD WARING awoke with a start in 188—— and found himself in Worcester. "Chub" moved to Lowell years ago when he was a boy, and has been with us ever since. He has a very clear head for business and is probably the best quarterback the football team ever had. In truth he is popular with his schoolmates, who recognize that he is as good as he himself thinks. "Chub" is an officer in the boys' regiment and has a decided influence in the girls' battalion. He intends to honor Worcester with his presence next year.

ROYAL LEITH gladdened the hearts of his parents sometime in the late eighties, therefore he must be over ten years old, although it's doubtful. "Chu" is our star hurdler and belongs to the relay team. He can wield a baseball bat in a frightful manner, being able also to bowl some. "Young" Leith intends to bring Exeter into athletic prominence next year, after which he will go to Brown, if the Fates permit. At present he has a strong pull with the faculty, especially with Mr. Irish.

PERCY JOSEPHINE BRAMHALL, who claims to be the inventor of the Kangaroo walk, first met his parents in a little cottage on the banks of the Skowhegan river. Percy claims to have a new walk which will be the admiration of all his friends. Bramhall is a post graduate and will go to New York and exhibit before the Women's Club on how to walk. My, how the dear girls will envy Percy.

When GEORGE BURKE was born, he was as healthy a youngster as one would wish to see, but early in his youth he met with an accident which stunted his growth. He is at present studying hard trying to increase in knowledge if not in size. George has been with us three years, but continues to sit upstairs with the little boys of his own age, because he likes their company or else prefers the teachers on the second floor. However, we hope that he will grow a little before next fall, for it would be too bad if he remained a dwarf the rest of his life.

Huntress journeyed once to school
To study hard and not to fool,
But when he tried to get his book
Instead of that, he got the hook.

The teacher said to Huntress then,
"Here's your hat, don't come again;"
Huntress arose and said "skidoo."
The teacher replied, "23 for you."

In Latin

I sing of absenses and the heroes, who, first driven from Room 7, came to the Office and thence out of doors. Tossed about much by the fates, until they should bring notes from their parents, or, still oftener, forge same. Which being duly accepted, they return much to their own comfort and enjoyment.

"Bunny"—Catulos is an animal something like a dog, what is it?
Leith—Another dog.

"Bunny"—What does nescio mean?
Sully—I do not know, sir.

"Bunny"—There are too many sharks reciting, I must call on some of the others—Scribner next.

"Bunny"—Pronounce Damasichthona.
Scholar—I can't.
"Bunny"—Well pronounce at it.

Mr. Sherburne—What kind of a trumpet did Triton use?
Whipple—A gabriel horn.

Teacher—What does caeruleus frater mean?
Foisy—Saint Patrick.

Mr. Sherburne has a great deal of trouble in distinguishing Shaw and Walsh. Better change the color of your hair "Skee."

"Bunny"—How did the Trojans know why the wooden horse was left by the Greeks?
Dow—They left a Sinon (sign on).

Dodge walking slowly to the board.
Miss Webster—I wish I had forty thousand times as much patience.
Dodge—So do I.

Mr Bartlett this year is the col.
He acts like a hot yellow jol.
He knows all there is,
To be known in his biz
With a knowledge that's almost infol.

You kno' dat garcon, she's call' Bull,
By gar! she is a good wan,
She's not ver' beig, she's not ver' tal,
Mais vous devrez see her run.

She's pretty good on dose lecons too,
She's always kno' dem all,
But de best t'ing dat she's kno' to do,
Is to play dat fine baseball.

I t'ink she's go for dat Dartmouth soon,
By gar! we'll mees her here,
She's learn to smoke, she's learn to chew,
She's learn to drink dat beer.

Happened on March 28th

Mr. Dennett, our young "prof" was struck by a bullet in the shape of a bun.—Oh, Mercy! Who did it?—Ask Whipple.

Wanted

Miss Sheldon—Rubber heels.

Students—To have the teachers go visiting.

Excuses in Room 7 from sick boys.

Jack Parker—A walking encyclopædia.

Miss Eastman—A new horse, as hers balks quite frequently, 2nd hour.

Mary had a little lamb
She threw him in a brook,
And when she wished to get him out
She had to get the hook.

She took him to the painters
To have him painted blue,
And when she brought him back to school
The teacher said "skidoo."

We Wonder

If "Pete" Donovan likes to read fairy tales.

If Palmer thinks he's funny.

If the Track Team likes smokes with their lunch.

If Rogers would rather be lame than married.

If Dodge likes Miss C—g—l.

Why Herrick used to sojourn in the library.

If Ellingwood can get ready-made shoes.

What attracts Walsh, '06, in Room 11, second hour.

Why Gross doesn't wear goggles to class.

If the Senior girls defeated the Sophomores.

Why Sid Whipple can be found on Rogers Street most every afternoon.

Burke: Hemman=Hemman: microbe.

Woodward—What do you get at the intersection of two lines.
Palmer—A transfer.

These two triangles are equal because a leg and arm of one are equal to a leg and arm of the other.—Burnham, 4th hour.

Walsh(finishing a geometry problem)—This is so because you can't prove it isn't, therefore it is Q. E. D.

The Colonel

Algebra, English, History, Math,
In fact anything that's in his path
Is quickly overcome with ease,
He forces teachers to their knees.

They plead and weep and beg in vain
For him to "please recite again,"
It isn't that he is a dunce (?)
That makes him called on more than once
But since he is so very bright
They'd like to hear him talk all night.

The trouble is, alas, to state,
'Tis but hot air that fills his pate;
Started at seven, he'd tell all he knew,
Before the nine o'clock curfew.

The Naked Truth or the Bare Facts

A band of joyous water-gods,
(Bill Haynes and many others)
Were drifting idly in the stream,
All sportively like brothers,
(The stream 'twas called the Resevoy,
With waters almost dead, sir,
And if you try to dive therein,
You'll surely crack your head, sir.)
When Bacchus and his merry nymphs,
(In other words friend Ike)
Came skippingly along the road,
(Tis likewise called the pike).
Now E. J. Bacchus felt in trim
To have a bit of fun,
Accordingly he planned to swipe
The sea-gods clothes and run.
No sooner thought of, than 'twas done
And witnesses declare,
The sea-gods raved upon the bank
All white, and wet and—bare.

* * * *

'Twas night, and through the murky gloom,
Seven forms went gliding through the dark.
And 'twas the barrel that each wore
That caused the midnight dog to bark.

The head of our list is young Lake,
Whom many consider a fake,
  But just mark my word,
  This Newk Lake is a bird,
While eating his fill of fruit cake.

The next on our list is young Sid,
Who is such a confounded kid
  That each pretty girl
  Sets his head in a whirl,
And Sid tips to her with his lid.

Now Mack knew a girl down in Lynn
Whom he never called very thin,
  For she's so very stout,
  That when she goes out,
All the neighbors then have to run in.

But Sid had a girl out near Lakeview,
And to her he said, "Dear, I'll take you
  Out for a ride
  If you'll sit by my side."
But she said, "You get out, you big fake, you."

But the peach of the bunch is Earle Kimball,
Whose mother told me was quite nimble,
  But she never knew
  What her son could do
With his shape that looks so, like a thimble.

But the light of all lights is dear Shaw,
Who would everlastingly jaw;
  He would like to debate,
  But his rusty old pate
Always failed him when in any flaw.

A cute little short-stop is Bull,
Who has gained with his teachers a pull
  But if they only could see
  Him each morning at three
Stagg'ring home, they would think he was full.

And the sport of our school is Tom Tighe,
Who wears on his chest a green tie,
But if I tied my tie
The way Tighe ties his tie
Pretty soon I'd have no tie to tie.

We all know that young man T. Farrell,
Who went out for a walk with Hen Carroll;
But while in for a swim
All their clothes tumbled in;
That's why they came home in a barrel.

I Can't Do That Sum

If Oscar Dow can make the track
And the basbet-ball besides;
If Whitcomb owns a pony,
But does not dare to ride;
If Coburn is reading Latin,
But cannot even spell;
How many men like Erdis
Can make the rooters yell?

CHORUS

Put down six and carry two,
Dee, dee, dee—dee, dee, dee;
This is one that we can't do,
Dee, dee, dee—dee, dee, dee.
We might think and think and think
Till our brains are numb,
We don't care what Woodward says,
We can't do that sum.

If a dozen springs could make Tighe jump
Over a five foot bar;
If Sturtevant lost the pole vault,
And came down with a jar;
If the football team beat Lawrence
By a score that was very high;
How many Lawrence corpses
Would you see as you pass by?
—Chorus.

If the Seniors have a treasury
That's filled with liquid air,
And Church protects carefully
The brains that are not there;
If Miss Carter has fifty Jacks
That want her for their Jill;
When will the school find out
That Bartlett is a "pill"?
—Chorus.

For a Hot Day

NOTHING equals an Electric fan for comfort on a hot day. It cools the atmosphere and makes work easy. No home, no office, no store or factory should be without one or more of these aids to summer living.

Why suffer with the heat when at small cost you can have an ocean breeze in your home? An Electric fan brings vacation pleasure to those who can not go away. There are a variety of fans for various specific places. Large ceiling fans for public buildings and small styles for residences. Look into this matter now and keep cool later.

SAFETY
CUSHION HEEL
O'Sullivan's
Heels
of
New Rubber
have the springy elastic tread that makes walking healthful and delightful. Eminent scientists admit that a person weighing 150 pounds, who walks three miles a day, lifts 1,188,000 pounds. Where do rubber heels come in? Don't it stand to reason that the heel of new rubber is essential? That it sheaths your walk through life with comfort, because they carry out what nature intended? Experience teaches that heels of new rubber are economical. That they make you look energetic and feel young. There is only one kind of heels made of new rubber, "O'Sullivan's." Unless you order by the name you may get worthless substitutes that cost you the same as O'Sullivan's, 50 cents attached. If dealer can't supply send 35c. and diagram of heel to O'Sullivan Rubber Co., Lowell.
